dear supporters

The Coolidge Corner Theatre Foundation is proud to present its newest addition, the 45-seat Video Screening Room. This new venue in Boston's only non-profit movie theatre offers an important opportunity to experience and study film presented in digital and video formats.

The new room is a wonderful compliment to Boston's most treasured art Deco moviehouse. The Coolidge Corner Theatre Foundation, now in its eleventh year, is finally able to fulfill one of its most ambitious missions by providing this theatre devoted to video and film-on-video exhibition and study. Filmmakers who have had limited opportunity to be represented in Boston will find a professional theatrical setting for their work.

By including programs for local filmmakers, smaller independent films, experimental films, touring video/film festivals, animation, and shorts, the Coolidge hopes to expand its programming.

Education is a key component of the Video Screening Room. The intimate theatre makes an ideal classroom setting, and allows the community the opportunity to view and discuss not only film, but also other arts media including dance, opera, poetry and literature, theatre, and music. The video room will be an ever-evolving space and is developing educational series and after school programs.
